

Roberts Dental offers expanded services

Grand opening set for tomorrow for 12th Avenue office that's added facial rejuvenation services

Delta Optimist

September 28, 2016 12:00 AM

Therapeutic Botox, which helps with headaches, migraines and grinding while also achieving a cosmetic effect, is one of the services now offered by Dr. Warren Roberts at Roberts Dental. Photograph By Gord Goble

The husband and wife team of Dr. Warren Roberts and Dr. Jan Roberts have returned to their office on 12th Avenue in Tsawwassen to offer dental and facial rejuvenation services under one roof.

A grand opening event for Roberts Dental is planned for tomorrow from 4 to 8 p.m. The longtime Delta residents, who've been in a handful of offices locally over the years, have also established their own teaching organization - Pacific Training Institute for Facial Aesthetics.

Warren Roberts said they've developed a number of firsts, like the Roberts Facial Rejuvenation Photography Series and a special technique for injections. The institute attracts students from around the world and provides courses online with teaching presentations being translated for subtitles in nine different languages, he said.

They also have a Vancouver office, A Smile Above, Roberts noted.

Their daughter Carly runs the institute while their son Brent is in his third year of a four-year program in dental school and will work out of the Roberts' Tsawwassen office, he explained.